But I don’t have it in my head right now exactly what that way is.” As for a possible release date, it’s still TBA, but Tippet did say that it’ll definitely be on an Xbox — that’s at least a safe bet. Tippet also talked about how he would go about choosing the people who will be featured in the voice-cast. Since he has plenty of ties to the Star Trek universe, he asked the fans for suggestions, which he says he used. Then he could go to the various voice actors and ask them for their thoughts as well. Tippet himself was surprised how many people were willing to do it, as he says, “I expected at most maybe two or three to do it. So that says a lot about the franchise.” What did the fans suggest?
